INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LAW

The attorneys at O'Neil Cannon know that some of the most important assets owned by any company are its business and product names, trademarks, logos, and other intangible property. We can assist your business in selecting and protecting a company name, product name, or logo before you find out about another company using a similar or identical name or mark. When problems do occur, we provide practical, yet aggressive counsel to clients involved in trademark or trade name infringement claims. We also know that your product price lists, production specifications, and other confidential information provide your business with an advantage over your competitors – and we know how to help you keep those trade secrets confidential.

Our areas of practice include:

- Drafting and Reviewing Nondisclosure and Confidentiality Agreements
- Protection of Trade Secrets
- State and Federal Trademark Registration
- Copyright Registration
- Representation in Infringement Claims
